

A Garden of Joy

Let us gather in the garden, where flowers bloom,
To celebrate the life, taken too soon,
A child of love, a heart so free,
A spirit of joy, forever to be.
We'll dance in the sunlight, and laugh in the rain, Remembering the moments, the love we'll sustain,
For though they're gone, their memory stays,
A vibrant presence, in our hearts, always.
In this garden of joy, we'll honor their life,
Through laughter and tears,
through sorrow and strife,
A child's love, so pure and bright,
A celebration of life, in the warm sunlight.
